The Language Laboratory

My school has a spacious language laboratory. It's air-conditioned, so the ~~door~~ <sup>door</sup> is always closed. There are ~~chairs~~ <sup>chairs</sup> [2] and desks with computers for students and a teacher. One ~~computer~~ <sup>computer</sup> [3] is for one student. There are also ~~headset~~ <sup>headset</sup> [4] for each ~~student~~ <sup>student</sup> and teacher. The students' computers can be controlled and monitored by the ~~computer~~ <sup>computer</sup> [5] via his computer. There is a ~~white board~~ <sup>white board</sup> [6] at the front and an ~~LCD projector~~ <sup>LCD projector</sup> [8] hanging on the ceiling. The projector is directed toward the whiteboard. There is a ~~cabinet~~ <sup>cabinet</sup> [7] behind the teacher's ~~cabinet~~ <sup>cabinet</sup> [9] to keep items.

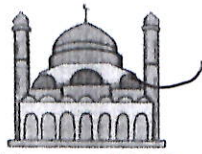

The place is also equipped with CCTV for security. We often study English in the language laboratory. We watch videos, listen to audio, do activities, and play games to study English using computers. We also practice speaking. We often present our work using an LCD projector. It's great and fun to study English.
